NEW HAMPSHIRE AUTHORS SERIES

View the complete New Hampshire Authors Series on the New Hampshire Public Television website nhptv.org/authors. Interviews are posted online after they are broadcast on NHPTV. Each broadcast is approximately 30 minutes.

The series offers access to fine contemporary literature for all ages. Meet renowned children's authors Tomie dePaola and Tor Seidler; novelists Ernest Hebert and Jodi Picoult; and naturalists Sy Montgomery and David Carroll. The state's poets are also represented by Charles Simic, Maxine Kumin, and Mekeel McBride—to name a few. Whether you're a science fiction and James Patrick Kelly fan, or love history and Dayton Duncan's writing and films, you'll see your favorite authors and meet new ones!

Interviews with the following authors are available online at nhptv.org/authors.

ERIC PINDER ■ October 20, 2013

Eric Pinder was born in upstate New York, attended college in western Massachusetts, graduated, and some time later drove to northern New Hampshire in a rusty Chevy Nova packed with a few clothes, almost no furniture, and about a dozen boxes of books. For seven years he lived and worked as a weather observer atop Mount Washington, the “Home of the World’s Worst Weather.” His experiences there inspired several books, including his first book for children, Cat in the Clouds (published by The History Press). He is also an avid nature photographer. His books for readers of all ages include If All the Animals Came Inside, Tying Down the Wind, Life at the Top and North to Katahdin. Eric is working on a novel and several more children’s books.

MIKE PRIDE ■ January 26, 2014

Mike Pride is a historian, journalist and editor emeritus of the Concord Monitor, where he ran the newsroom for 30 years. Pride served on the Pulitzer Prize board for nine years. He has co-authored or co-edited five previous books, including My Brave Boys, a history of Colonel Edward E. Cross and the Fifth New Hampshire Volunteers. Pride graduated from the University of South Florida with a degree in American studies and was a Nieman Fellow at Harvard University and Hoover Media Fellow at Stanford University. Photo credit: David Sullivan

SHARON OLDS ■ April 13, 2014

The Poetry Foundation describes Sharon Olds as “one of contemporary poetry’s leading voices. Winner of several prestigious awards, including the Pulitzer Prize and National Book Critics Circle Award, Olds is known for writing intensely personal, emotionally scathing poetry which graphically depicts family life as well as global political events.” Olds’ poetry is known for its accessible and direct free verse style. Often first-person narratives, her poetic voice is known for both its precision and versatility. She lives in Pittsfield, NH, and New York City.

Rebecca Rule

Rebecca Rule interviews the authors and creates the sense of a one-on-one conversation between them. Rule is a humorist, book reviewer and author.

AUTHORS

NEW HAMPSHIRE

The New Hampshire Authors Series, presented by the University of New Hampshire Library, features writers who live, summer, teach, or were born in New Hampshire.

Yankee humorist and author Rebecca Rule invites poets, fiction and nonfiction writers, and journalists to share their insights into the art and craft of writing.

During the 2013-2014 season, the New Hampshire Authors Series is celebrating its 10th year. The interviews are held in October, January, and April at the University of New Hampshire’s Dimond Library before an audience. The New Hampshire Authors Series is free and open to the public, but seating at these popular events is limited.

The 2013-2014 New Hampshire Authors Series is presented by the University of New Hampshire Library. New Hampshire Public Television (NHPTV) broadcasts the series, and makes the interviews available online at nhptv.org/authors

NHPTV, the state’s only statewide locally owned and operated television network, engages minds, connects communities, and celebrates New Hampshire. Beyond its award-winning local and national television programs, NHPTV is a leader in education and community outreach. nhptv.org
