teachers'domain® Multimedia Resources for the Classroom and Professional Development

Engage and Inspire K-12 Learners!

Teachers' Domain is an online educational service with two related components – collections and courses – that help teachers enhance their students' learning experiences and advance their own teaching skills. The Teachers' Domain collections include classroom-ready multimedia resources for use in lessons or independent study, and the Teachers Domain Professional Development courses utilize many of the same resources along with videos of exemplary classroom practice.

The collections provide learning experiences that no textbook can. This ever-expanding library currently includes collections on:

- Science: Life Science, Physical Science, Engineering, Earth and Space Science
- Social Studies: The Civil Rights Movement, Brown v. Board of Education

Teachers' Domain offers:

- High-quality multimedia from NOVA, American Experience, and other public television productions and partners
- Video and audio clips, interactives, images, and documents
- Explanatory background articles for each resource
- Correlations to state and national curriculum standards
- Media-rich lesson plans
- Resource management tools

- ◆ C-Span series has over 500 archived programs with authors.

The main content area is titled "A New Booknotes.org" and contains a paragraph describing the site as a permanent online archive for C-SPAN's award-winning author interview program. It mentions that from 1989 to 2004, C-SPAN CEO Brian Lamb interviewed contemporary non-fiction authors for one hour, discussing their books, research, and lives. The resulting archive of 800 interviews is a valuable collection of late twentieth-century American scholarship, capturing the intellectual work of some of the country's best non-fiction writers, as well as the biographies and memoirs of notable contemporary political figures. Searchable video, as well as written transcripts, allow teachers, students, researchers and non-fiction book enthusiasts to see and hear these writers in their own words.

Below the description is a search box labeled "Find a Booknotes program:" with a dropdown menu for "Select a category" and a "Go" button. A link below the search box says "Sort Our 800 Shows by 15 Different Categories."

To the right of the main content is a search bar labeled "Transcript Search:" with a "Search" button and a link for "Advanced Search | Help".

Below the search bar is a promotional section titled "Now in Paperback! Booknotes: On American Character," featuring a small image of the book cover. The text describes it as the fourth book drawn from the Booknotes series, featuring 80 of America's best-known contemporary historians, biographers, and journalists, priced at only $16.50.

Below the paperback promotion is a section titled "Buy DVD/VHS" with the text "Visit the C-SPAN Store to buy Booknotes videotapes." and a link "[ Learn More and Purchase ]".

Below that is a section titled "Download Audio" with the text "Visit Audible to purchase and download the audio version of Booknotes." and a link "[ Learn More and Purchase ]".

At the bottom of the page, there are two red banners. The left one is titled "Encore Booknotes" and features the date "July 16, 1995" and the name "Armstrong Williams". The right one is titled "Booknotes Books" and features a small image of a book cover.
